The Cleveland Museum of Art
Cleveland 6 Ohio Telephone GArfield 1 7340 From Publicity Department

Contemporary Swiss Architecture, an exhibition organized by the Swiss Foundation Pro Helvetia, Zurich and circulated by the American Federation of Arts, will be shown at The Cleveland Museum of Art December 15 through January 21. It will be open free to the public.

Designed by Alfred Roth, internationally known Swiss architect, it consists of 120 panels, with enlarged photographs showing the most varied types of modern buildings in Switzerland from about 1926 to the present, the majority having been designed in the last ten years.

Divided into eight sections, this exhibition gives a striking picture of Switzerland's contemporary architecture: Introduction,-showing 4 types of native architecture, projected against regional landscapes; The Home: Settlements apartments, individual houses, interiors, furniture; Education: kindergartens to universities; Recreation: vacation centers, open-air baths, museums, theatres, libraries, parks; Health: hospitals; Religion: churches, church art, cemeteries; Work: factories, welfare centers, office buildings; Consturction: prefabrication, building elements, precision of finish, civil engineering, including bridges by Robert Maillart.